

Abstract of the Disclosure

A microscope for transmission viewing of a specimen, said microscope comprising a light source for producing a light beam; an objective lens positioned for focusing the light beam produced by said light source on an area of the specimen for illuminating said area; and a reflector means positioned for reflecting light transmitted through the specimen back through the illuminated area of the specimen.